

Please, DO NOT permit cell phone use on commercial airline revenue flights!
I've worked in aviation for 28 years and am a frequent flyer, both business and personal. Aviation has afforded me a good living and I support aviation in general. However, the thought of listening to constant cell phone discussions is a nightmare, at best. There may be room for compromise, such as a lavatory converted into a cell phone booth (which would be costly for airlines). Lifting this ban will create more problems than it would solve. I know that I speak for many who have not formally responded to this FCC filing. So please, RETAIN THE BAN!!

Respectfully submitted,

Bruce Sechler